Who We Are

We are... experienced.

Established in 1995, DBL has a history of providing quality, reliable bespoke software. We specialise in working with the manufacturing, distribution, service and financial sectors, and have a proven track record of providing solutions that increase profits and help our clients make better business decisions. Our experience gives us insight into how our customers work and what they need, and we use this knowledge to create the best solutions for them.

We are... experts.

We have worked with several generations of Microsoft technologies, and our development team are adept at working with the latest versions of Visual BASIC and the .NET Framework. We are noted for our expertise in building complex data-driven Windows -and ASP.NET web-based applications, specializing in Microsoft SQL Server. We are also experts in integrating data from a variety of different sources, such as UniData, Oracle, MySQL, Sage and others.

We are... flexible.

Our goal is to ensure that at all stages, the customer is in control. We work with the customer to determine their requirements, offering as much or as little guidance as they want. The customer prioritises the features they need and want first, and we design our project plans to suit. Using agile development methods, we are able to offer the customer the maximum flexibility throughout implementation. We also always build our solutions with ease of future additions in mind, so our software is as flexible as our way of working.

We are... committed.

Unlike other software providers, we do not consider the implementation of a system to be the end. We build long-standing relationships with our customers, helping them determine any future needs, and providing long-term support.
